WHAT IS GOOD PUBLIC MANAGEMENT PRACTICE?

A good practice is an activity or process undertaken by a local/regional authority that has produced noteworthy results in public management and that can be replicated in other organisations to improve their effectiveness, efficiency and innovation for the benefit of the public good.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF THE CONTEST?

To promote and encourage good practices currently being implemented by regional governments with the aim of improving the quality of services provided to citizens.

WHAT ARE THE AIMS?

- To identify and highlight good practices of regional governments worldwide.
- To stimulate the Public Administration's dynamism and efficiency.
- To disseminate, support and promote the adoption of good practices in public management in the regional government institutions.
- To position the concept of good practices in public management as an effective tool for regional governments.

WHAT IS THE SCOPE?

The Award has a global scope and it is addressed to intermediate governments: regions, provinces and federal states.

WHAT ARE THE REQUIREMENTS?

- The good practice submitted must have already commenced and its first results be available.
- In the case of good practices developed by more than one institution, such institutions may submit the good practice jointly or separately.
- All information provided in the application will be deemed true merely on the grounds of its submission. However, if the evaluation process reveals that the information contained is not truthful or accurate, it will result in disqualification of the application.
- The practices can be submitted in one of these languages: English, French and Spanish.

HOW WILL THE GOOD PRACTICES BE EVALUATED?

The assessment of applications will be conducted on the basis of objective, technical and measurable criteria; in an independent, non-political and impartial manner, within the framework of the United Nations resolution A/RES/70/1, “Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development”.

EVALUATION CRITERIA

1. Citizens Welfare: The practice must be oriented towards improving the citizens’ quality of life. It is necessary to explain and prove in concrete terms in which way the adopted measures benefit the citizens.
2. Impact indicators: The practice must describe and support the impact on the citizens and on the institution through concrete indicators. Impact will be regarded as the positive consequences that the experience has had in the citizens’ welfare, not the direct outcomes of the experience.
3. Replicability: The practice must prove to be potentially replicable and/or to have already been replicated by other bodies in the same entity or by third parties.
4. Relevance: The practice shall make evident the relevance of the problem it tackled (or is tackling) and the effectiveness of the solution put forward.

5. Creativity: The practice shall be innovative and original, that is, be creative in the design implementation, dissemination and/or monitoring of the experience submitted.
6. Efficiency: The implementation of the practice must entail greater efficiency in the management of the regions assets.
7. Wholeness: It is necessary to explain the specific character and detail of the practice; however, the context in which it is developed must also be provided, that is, the institutional framework, strategy/public policy it belongs to and has favoured its implementation. It shouldn't be an isolated effort, but it must respond to institutional objectives.
8. Sustainability: The practice must ensure that implementation of its actions does not have a negative impact.
9. SDG: The practice shall outline in which way has been inspired by the SDGs and contribute to their achievement.
